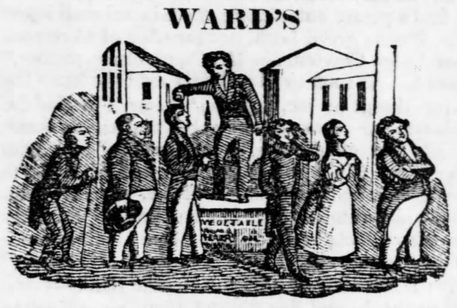
WARD'S



VEGETABLE HAIR OIL.

IN all ages of the world, a beautiful head of hair has been considered the greatest ornament ever bestowed by nature upon the human frame, and indispensably necessary to the perfection of personal beauty. It is a very general complaint of young persons, that their hair is falling off, becoming dry, or unhealthy; this may be owing to the application of improper and injurious oils, or to the entire neglect of the hair. Without proper attention, diseases of the hair will arise, which are often found to occasion thinness, falling off, and frequently total baldness. For these evils, and the necessary inconveniences attending them, Ward's Vegetable Hair Oil will be found in all cases a sure remedy. Before offering this Oil to the public it had been tried in hundreds of cases of baldness, thinness and falling off of the hair, and in every instance its salutary effects have been realized to admiration. It has never failed to produce a new and beautiful growth of hair on heads already bald, and to check that falling off which so often occurs. In cases where it becomes dry and ceases to grow, this Oil will very soon render it healthy, and produce a rapid and beautiful growth, without the least injury to the most delicate head; nor does any falling off follow after using it. That loss of hair, which so often takes place after sickness, may be easily prevented by using this celebrated Oil. In short no Oil has ever been offered to the public that gives such universal satisfaction, and stands the test of experience like Ward's Vegetable Hair Oil.

That the public may rest assured of the salutary effects of this Oil, the following testimonials, from gentlemen of high respectability, are most respectfully submitted:—

Extract of a letter from John A. Wadsworth, M. D., of the city of Providence, R. I. to W. & L. Krumbhaar & Co., of Philadelphia.

Gentlemen: Dr. Ward's Vegetable Hair Oil has gained great repute with us, having restored Hair on heads that have been bald for years, and I have no doubt it will give satisfaction wherever it may be introduced.

Very respectfully,
JOHN A. WADSWORTH.

Messrs. STANLEY & Co., of Baltimore, in writing to Mr. HUNTON, Druggist, in Washington City, say, 'That Letters to them from Druggists in Boston, describe Ward's Hair Oil as being highly approved of there, and selling with astonishing rapidity.

Extract of a letter from Harvey Seymour, Druggist, Hartford, Ct., to the Proprietor, dated Hartford, Sept. 14, 1832.

Dear Sir: I find your Hair Oil a valuable article; I was so unfortunate as to lose the Hair from the top of my head, and, from the use of about half a bottle, I find it starting out anew.

HARVEY SEYMOUR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27, 1832.

Dr. WARD—Dear Sir: Your Hair Oil, you were good enough to put into my hands when I was in Lowell, has produced the most wonderful effects on my Hair that I ever witnessed. You recollect when I called on you, my Hair had fallen very much, and I was quite bald; I have now a beautiful head of Hair, coming on very rapidly. I hardly know how to express my gratitude to you for the benefit the Oil has afforded me. A number of my friends are very anxious to obtain some of the Oil, and I wish you to send me one dozen bottles of the largest size immediately.

Yours, respectfully,
C. WOOD, M. D.

Extract of a letter from Dr. John A. Wadsworth, of Providence, to the Proprietor.

Esteemed Friend: Your Hair Oil is attended with very promising effects. One of our most respectable citizens, who had been bald for ten years, with a skin as smooth and free from hair as the palm of his hand, has been using the Oil, and fine hair is now coming out on every part of the previously bald scalp.

Yours, respectfully,
JOHN A. WADSWORTH.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1, 1832.

I certify that about fifteen years ago, my hair began to fall off, and in a few years became so thin that I found it a source of great inconvenience. On seeing Ward's Vegetable Hair Oil advertised in several New York papers, and highly recommended by two medical gentlemen, with whom I was acquainted, I was induced to make trial of it. When I commenced the use of it, I very much doubted its efficacy in my case, having been bald so many years. But I had not tried it long, before I found it to possess the properties which had been attributed to it. I have now as good and healthy a head of hair as I had twenty five years ago. I can cheerfully recommend it to others who have had the misfortune to lose their hair.

G. W. CUNNINGHAM.

BOSTON, Nov 3, 1832.

Dr. WARD—Sir: A friend of mine had a bottle of your Hair Oil put into his hand, and using it a short time, the hair began to grow on his head, which was before bald, and he had tried many other remedies in vain.

Yours, respectfully,
C. E. ALLEN.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, AUGUST 13, 1833.

We learn, by an article in the Advocate, of this morning, that the senior editor of that paper, and his wife, were thrown from a Gig, on Friday last, near Steubenville, and severely injured.—Hopes were entertained, however, that the wounds will not prove dangerous.

The Supreme Court commenced its adjourned Session here, on the 5th instant—but, owing to the absence of three out of five Judges, (the Chief Justice and Judge Rogers only being present,) little or no business was done, and they adjourned next day.

The Junior editor of the Advocate (we admit the paragraph to be the production of the juvenile editor,) persists in saying that the office in which his father was raised was not a "workshop of calumnies and falsehoods."—We have furnished our evidence upon the subject, and our readers can decide the matter. Perhaps, after all, the difference between us and the Advocate, on this point, is merely one of words.

We recollect once to have heard of a man, notorious for misstatements, and misrepresentations, denying the correctness of the application of the epithet liar to him, because his accuser had not proved all his statements to be false. He contended that a liar was one who never spoke the truth. Perhaps the editor of the Advocate thinks that a "workshop of calumnies and falsehoods" is a printing office where nothing but falsehoods are published. If such is his interpretation of the matter, our controversy was unnecessary. But we must inform the junior editor, that public opinion is against him on this point. We have conversed with many persons, and find them all agree, that the publication of the infamous, and blasphemous article, on the 4th March, 1797, and of the forged letters, charging Washington with treachery, established the character of Bache's office as a "workshop of calumnies and falsehoods." Such was our own opinion, and, for this reason, we have declined publishing any further evidence upon this point.

☞We have received a long communication from an old and esteemed correspondent of the Gazette, in relation to our controversy with the "pupil of Bache," which we will publish in our next, and to which we invite the attention of our readers, especially the younger part of them.

The junior editor of the Advocate assures us that the senior editor, whom he calls "one who knows," will be here in a few days, and promises that he will then make us "sink into our original nothingnes!"—Well, we trust we will be enabled to bear his inflictions with becoming fortitude.

Speculations in Stocks.—Niles' Register of Aug. 3, states that, "we are sorry to see it mentioned by a Washington letter writer, that a distinguished officer of the navy was, sometime since, engaged in speculating in the stock of the bank of the United States, and as if in full communion with the herd engaged in that business—but we are not sorry to learn that he probably sustained a loss of five thousand dollars by thus wandering out of his proper course."—Poulson.

The Natchez Journal, of July 26, says—"While the Board of Selectmen were in session, they received information that Mr. D. P. Jackson, who lives some distance from Natchez, was engaged in digging a trench from the pond of water under the hill, through his Levee, for the purpose of draining the water from the pond into the river, with a view to making some improvements or alterations on his Levee and walk. The city authorities immediately directed the city solicitor to draw a bill and present it to the Chancellor, with a view to obtain an injunction to stop the progress of the work. The Chancellor made an order to Mr. Jackson, restraining him from proceeding, until Saturday, 27th instant—in the mean time, that a rule be served on him to appear at the Court House, on that day, and show cause why an injunction should not issue. In the mean time, the work had so far progressed, as we are informed—there having been some unaccountable delay in serving the order upon him which the Chancellor directed, that the Sheriff should read to him, without waiting for the rule to be issued—that the water forced its way through, and by this morning the pond was completely drained, leaving an area of one and a half acres of mud exposed to the burning rays of a summer sun—the mud is supposed to be 3 feet or more in depth, in which is contained immense quantities of fish and reptiles, together with vegetable matter of all kinds. Hogs and negroes, and boys of all colors are now, if our information be correct, busily engaged in fishing up the treasures of this vasty deep—of pestiferous mud."

At a meeting of a number of friends of the noble cause of the American Colonization Society, in New York—

"It being mentioned that Capt. Page, of the U. States Navy, who had last year visited the colony, by orders of the government, was present in the meeting, he was requested to state such facts as to the civil and moral condition and prospects of the colony, as had particularly attracted his attention during his visit. The request was cheerfully complied with by Capt. P., and his statements were such as to afford very high gratification to the friends of the cause. The colony was in a flourishing condition, and the community exemplary for its morals. The climate is healthy for the man of color, the soil rich and productive; and the people contented and happy. He was in the habit of visiting the people daily, and dining with them at their houses. He saw but one discontented person there, and he was so only because he thought he ought to have been appointed to an office. Captain P. saw not a drunken person there, and in answer to questions put to him, gave very satisfactory contradictions to the statements recently put forth by the enemies of the cause, in the incendiary papers published in Boston and this city.—N. Y. Spectator.

Italian Physicians generally use, with success, a solution of chloride of lime for the psora or itch. Three ounces of the chloride are dissolved in a pint of water, and the diseased parts are bathed with this three or four times a day. Common cases have yielded to this application in three or 4 days; and the most inveterate never more than 10. A warm bath is useful, if not essential, every third day.—Amer. Sentinel.

Mr. Biddle see quick enuf it was no fool's journey I come on; and I made some of his folks scratch their heads, I tell you. I gin em no notice of my comin, and I jump'd right in the thickest on em there one day when they were tumblin in and shellin out the munny like corn—"Now," says I, "my boys, I advise all on ye to brush up your multiplication tables, for I am down upon you with aligation, and the rule of three, and vulgar fractions; and if I find a penny out of place, the Gineral shall know it. I'm no green horn, nor member of Congress, nor Judge Clayton, nor Mr. Cambreleng, neither," says I. As soon as Mr. Biddle read the letter the Gineral sent by me, says he, "Major, I'm glad the Gineral has sent some one at last that knows something, and can give a strait account;" and with that he call'd all the Bank folks, and tell'd em to bring their books together. "Now," says he, "Major, which eend shall we begin at first." "It makes no odds which," says I; "all I care about is to see if both eends meet; and if they dont, Mr. Biddle," says I, "its all over with you and the Bank—you'll all go, hook and line,"—and then we off coats, and went at it. I found some of them are fellows there plagy sharp at syferin. They'd do a sum by a kinder short Dilworth quick as flash. I always use a slate—it comes kinder natural to me; and I chalk'd her off there the first day and figur'd out nigh upon 100 pretty considerable tuf sums. There was more than three cart load of books about us, and every one on em bigger than the Deacon's family Bible. And such an eternal batch of figering I never see, and there wasn't a blot or scratch in the whole on em.

I put a good many questions to Mr. Biddle, for the Gineral gin me a long string on em; and I thought some would stagger him; but he answered them all just as glib as our boys in Downingville do the catakise, from the chief "eend of man" clean through the petitions—And he did it all in a mighty civil way too, ther was ony one he kinder tried to git round, and that was—how he come to have so few of the Gineral's folks among the Directors until very lately? "Why," says he, "Major, and Major" says he (and then he got up and took a pinch of snuff and offered me one) says he "Major, the Bank knows no party; and in the first go off, you know, the Gineral's friends were all above matters of so little importance as Banks and Banking. "If we had put a branch in Downingville," says he, "the Gineral would not have had occasion to ask such a question," and with that he made me a bow; and I went home and took dinner with him. It is plagy curious to hear him talk about millions and thousands; and I got as glib too at it as he is; and how on earth I shall git back agin to nine pences and four pence happenies I cant tell.

Arter I had been figerin away there nigh upon a week, and used up 4 or 5 slate pencils, and spit my mouth as dry as a cob, rubbin out the sums as fast as I did them, I writ to the Gineral, and tell'd him it was no use; I could find no mistake; but so long as the Bank was at work it was pretty much like counting a flock of sheep in a fall day when they are just let into a new stubble—for it was all the while crossing and mixing, and the only way was to lock up all the Banks, and as fast as you count em, black their noses.

"Now" says I one day to Squire Biddle, "I'll just take a look at your money bags, for they tell the Gineral you han't got stuff enuf in the Bank to make him a pair of spectakles, "none of your rags" says I, "but the real grit;" and with what he call'd 2 or 3 chaps in Quaker coats, and they open'd a large place about as big as the "east room;" and such a sight I never see—boxes, bags, and kags, all full, and I should say nigh upon a hundred cord. Says I, "Squire Biddle what on earth is all this? for I am stump'd"—"O" says he, "Major that's our Safety Fund,"—how you talk?" says I.

"Now," says I, " is that all genwine?" "Every dollar of it," says he; "will you count it Major?" says he. "Not to day," says I; "but as the Gineral wants me to be particular, I'll just hussle some em;" and at it I went hammer and file. It raly did me good, for I did not think there was so much real chink in all creation. So when I got tired, I set down on a pile, and took out my wallet, and began to count over some of the "Safety Fund" notes I got shaved with on the grand tower. "Here," says I, "Squire Biddle, I have a small trifle I should like to barter with you, it's all "Safety Fund," says I; "and Mr. Van Buren's head is on most all on em." But as soon as he put his eye on em, he shook his head. I see he had his eye teeth cut.—"Well," says I, "it's no matter;"—but it lifted my dander considerable.

"Now," says I, "Mr. Biddle, I've got one more question to put to you, and then I'm through. You say your bills are better than the hard dollars; this puzzles me, and the Gineral too. Now how is this?" "Well," says he, "Major, I'll tell you; suppose you have a bushel of potatoes in Downingville, and you wanted to send them to Washington, how much would it cost to get them there?" "Well," says I, "about two shillins lawful—for I sent a barrel there to the Gineral last fall, and that cost me a dollar freight." "Well," says he, "suppose I've got potatoes in Washington jist as good as yours, and I take your potatoes in Downingville, and give you an order to receive a bushel of potatoes in Washington, wouldn't you save two shillins lawful by that? "We sometimes charge," says he, "a trifle for drafts, when the places are distant, but never as much as it would to carry the dollars;" and with that we looked into the accounts agin, and there it was. Says I, "Squire Biddle, I see it now as clear as a whistle."

Correspondence of the Boston Atlas.

Washington, July 31st, 1833.

As I was passing by the President's the other day, who should come out but the real Jack Downing, (there are several counterfeits,) laughing, and holding his sides, as if he would explode, till he came point blank (he is near sighted) against the iron fence which has lately been thrown across the former avenues: "Curse the —— there, I had almost swore;—so much for my training in the white house." After making his way out, " My dear friend, how do you do?" (I said he was near sighted, but I left him in this case to correct his own mistake.) "Why, my dear major, what is it that so much pleases you?" " O, nothing, nothing," said the Major, with his peculiar toss of the head, " only the Gineral is still contriving how he can get Mr. Van Buren and Mr. Webster together. Ye see Mr. Webster is somewhat of a favorite, for the old man, after all, does not like sneaking politicians any more than he does sneaking soldiers; though, as it respects Mr. Van Buren, there seems to be a failure of the old adage about bird catching. Well, the old man thinks that Mr. Webster may be brought into the wake of Mr. Van Buren, and he was talking to me how it might be done. Why, Gineral, says I, Webster is not the tool for such a cabinet maker. Webster a tool for Martin! ha! ha! ha! Why I should as soon think of my housemaid Nelly skimming her milk with a steam boat. Ho! ho! ho! What would you think of little Matty with a sixty four pounder on his shoulder, and stock and lock in proportion?"

The South Carolina papers have not yet ceased publishing the accounts of their fourth of July celebrations, and the toasts accompanying their libations. From among two columns of toasts drunk at Laurens, and published in the last Telescope, we copy the following specimens, as being rather the prettiest:—

"Gen. Andrew Jackson, the Nero of the 19th Century—like his autotype, he would have ripped up his mother's bowels, and embrued his hands in her blood.

By W. W. Simpson—President of the day—President Jackson: possessed of the principles of a monarch and the heart of a tyrant—his government is arbitrary, and his temper unforgiving.

By Dr. J. H. Davis—Andrew Jackson, Esq. LL. D. Black Hawk and the Piper! the first a driveler and a show—the other two—alas, sic transit gloria mundi."

How can "the sweet South" thus scold the President of their own choosing!—N. Y. Spectator.

Political Inconsistency.—A dinner was given, on the 24th ult., in the ancient town of Williamsburg, and in the very heart of Virginia, to Ex-Lieutenant Randolph. So wags the world! Virginia boasted, and not without cause, of having made Andrew Jackson President of the United States—and now, that same Virginia, like an inconstant jilt, honors with a public dinner the man who wrings that President's nose! History, says Lord Mansfield, may teach us that they who are saluted with the huzzas of a crowd one day, often receive their execrations the next; and Virginia has added her example in proof.

The toasts upon the occasion exhibit more of bitterness than of wit—are extremely personal, and sometimes irreverent. The whole affair we consider as discreditable to that State.—N. Y. Spectator, Aug. 6.

Dermot Mac Morrogh.—The liberal sentiments which pervade Ex President Adams's Poem, on the conquest of Ireland, have obtained for it but an unwelcome reception in England. The London Athenæum cuts it up with severity. But in doing so it shows an ignorance of our political affairs, of which a village politician in Kent or Carrickfergus should be ashamed. The paper in question speaks of Mr. Adams as the Ex Vice President of the United States, and now a candidate for the Presidentship against General Jackson.—The object of the Poem, the Athenæum says, was pretty well known in America to be "to catch a few stray votes by pandering to the republican appetite for the abuse of Kings, and the vulgar vituperation of Great Britain, which gratifies a noisy, but—both in respectability and numbers—a very contemptible party in America." Such utter ignorance of facts, and such entire misconception of objects, will make the distinguished author smile at the transatlantic editorial wisdom.—N. Y. Spectator.

A Party Man.—An article in the Wabash Mercury furnishes the following faithful portrait of a thorough party, or collar man:

" He uses an argument, not because it is correct, but because it is put into his mouth by " the powers that be." He adopts an idea, not because it is good, but because it is adopted by the President:—He advocates a measure, not because it will be for the good of the country, but because it will be for the good of the party. He is a mere machine—he acts only as he can be acted upon.—The measure which he advocates to day, if abandoned by the party, he would condemn to morrow. He is one of those beings whom Butler so admirably describes, when he says—

" What proves all doctrines plain and clear?
About two hundred pounds a year.
And what was proved quite plain before,
Proved false again? Two hundred more."

He is like one of the following sheep of a flock; as soon as he ascertains by the tinkle of the bell, that the bell wether is in motion, he shakes his tail, cries baa! and is off in a canter.

A major of the South Carolina militia, belonging to the Union Party, has lately been tried by court martial, and suspended from command for one year, for refusal to obey the orders of Governor Hayne, during the late hostile movements of the South Carolina army, preparatory to war upon the United States. Major Neely had determined not to do any act to enforce the Ordinance of the Convention, and in consequence, when commanded directly by the Governor to inspect his companies in anticipation of armed resistance to the revenue laws, declined acting, and was accordingly arrested. The defence was technical, insisting that all orders relative to inspections and drills, should come properly from the adjutant general, and that the Governor's orders were contrary to military usage—an usurpation, and subversive of the regular organization of the militia. The defence did not avail him.—He could not have expected it would. The whole course of Nullification was so exceedingly irregular, against all order, reason and precedent, that it would be a hopeless task to undertake to bring its acts under legal cognizance, so long as the nullifiers are in power.—Balt. Amer.

On Thursday morning we copied, from the Philadelphia Gazette, as an article of intelligence, and without note or comment, a report, which the editor of that paper said was in circulation, relative to the government deposits, giving, at the same time, the authority upon which we made the publication. We had not heard of the report ourselves, and gave it to our readers as we received it, knowing that it was a subject in which they felt an interest, and that, if erroneous, as we soon found was the case, the means were at hand for a prompt refutation.

It was, therefore, not without some surprize, that we saw ourselves charged, by a morning paper, with having stated as a fact, which we only gave as a report, on the authority of another paper, and assailed, on that account, as an opponent of the national administration. While we never shrink from an honest expression of our opinions, on all subjects of public interest, we are unwilling to have sentiments imputed to us which we never expressed, or to be responsible for the accuracy of statements given expressly on the authority of others.—Amer. Sentinel, Saturday, Aug. 10.

John Randolph, of Roanoke.—During the delivery of one of those tedious and interminable speeches that are often inflicted upon the House of Representatives, a member, who had occupied the floor for many hours, was called to order, on the ground that his remarks were not pertinent to the question before the House. "I know it," said he, —"I am not speaking for the benefit of the House, —but for posterity." Speak a little longer, (said John Randolph, in an under tone,) and you will have your audience before you.

Similes.—Pride is like a stately turkey, which gloomily and contemptuously strides along; conceit is like the sunflower, which impudently turns and stares at the sun; while humility is like a lovely flower, which is almost hidden among more prominent and less beautiful plants.—Treatise on Happiness.

Shop Lifting.—A couple of well dressed females about a week ago went into the Dry Goods Store of Augustus Sherman, 62 Bowery, where under pretence of buying calico, they managed to steal a piece with which they got off unperceived. The theft was ascertained shortly after their leaving the store, but too late to recover the property by pursuing them. Mr. Sherman however kept a look out for them, and in course of yesterday afternoon discovered them going into the store of Alfred Hopkins, No. 112, in the same street. After waiting a considerable time and seeing them come out, he entered and informed Mr. Hopkins of his loss, at the same time expressing an opinion that they had visited his store upon a similar errand. This information exciting his suspicion, he proceeded to examine the goods on the counter which he had taken from the shelves, to show them, and missed a piece of silk containing forty yards. Pursuit was immediately made after them by Mr. Hopkins, who followed them into Grand street, where discovering that they were watched, they went into a Porter House, and asked the privilege of going into the back room. This being granted, the lady of the house watched their movements, and discovered them placing something under the bed, which she drew out and found it to be the piece of silk which had been stolen from the store of Mr. Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins entering at the same instant, recognised the silk as his, and detained them until information should be conveyed to the police office, and Messrs. Sparks and Merritt sent for, who took into custody and conveyed them to the police office.

One of them calls her name Mary Lee, and the other is the wife of the celebrated Smith, the Bank robber, who is now in confinement in the State prison at Sing Sang, whether he was sentenced for robbing the City Bank. What is remarkable, the dress which Mrs. Smith had on when brought to the office, was claimed by Mr. Sherman as a part of the piece which had been stolen from his store. They were both fully committed to answer for the offence at the Sessions.—New York paper.

We extract the following handsome compliment to the City of Pensacola, from a Northern paper:—

"There is a mellowness in the atmosphere which one drinks in with a constant and insatiable pleasure. The heat is never excessive; it is tempered by a mild sea breeze, that never fails to pay its daily and greatful visit. The country around is little else than a barren pine plain; but there is music in those trees, when stirred by the wind, and there is health in every gale. This is no place for the epicure, but the trembling invalid will find here a climate that compensates him for the loss of all the delicacies and drugs, of which your mighty city can boast."

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.—A late report of the Board of Directors of this Company shows, that the receipts for transportation, for the last six months, amounted to $92,556 86

That the expenses of transportation and salary of superintendent for the same period has been	41,534 35
Repairs of Road, Machinery, and superintendent's salary,	18,374 89
Wear and tear of horses and harness, supposed to be	2,800 00
	$62,709 24
Leaving, after deducting expenses, a balance of	29,847 62

Rail Roads.—The Tallahassee, Floridian of a late date, mentions that there is a good prospect of constructing a Rail Road from Tallahassee to some point on the St. Marks, or Waukulla River. A subscription with this object was recently started in that place, and nine hundred shares of the value of 20 dollars each, were already subscribed. Besides a large majority of the subscribers professed their willingness to double the amount of their subscriptions, if necessary, to secure the completion of the work. Under these circumstances the prospect for the establishment of this Rail Road, so important to some sections of Florida and the State of Georgia, must be deemed quite favorable. —Balt. Pat.

Virginia Gold.—The Richmond Whig says it has accounts almost every week, of new discoveries of Gold, in the Gold region of Virginia.—This region, it appears, commences in the neighborhood of the Rappahannock, in Spottsylvania, extending with the mountains from N. E. to S. W., and touching the counties of Louisa, Fluvanna, and Goochland; thence crossing James river, enters Buckingham, and so approaches the confines of N. Carolina. Many of the veins are said to be extremely rich, and the Gold exceedingly plenty. In the earnest search after the " golden ore," throughout the Gold region, new discoveries are of frequent occurrence. A correspondent of the Whig mentions one recently made in Buckingham county, on the west fork of Hunt's Creek, where the hands employed readily get 4 or 5 dollars worth per day, each; and where, one day, they got as much as from seven to eight dollars. —Balt. Amer.

Recent valuable discoveries of lead ore have been made upon the East Bank of the Mississippi river, between the Platte and Grant rivers, in Iowa county, Missouri. The ore is said to be of the best quality, found in large bodies and over an extensive tract of country. Among the most valuable discoveries, is a horizontal cave, the entrance of which is about 150 feet above the level of the river. It is from two to four feet wide, and from six to nine feet high.—From this cave, about 400,000 pounds of lead ore have been taken, with little labor; and the operation was still continued. —Cincin. Jour.

Dazzling Argument.—'You teach,' said the Emperor Trajan to Rabbi Joshua, 'that your God is every where, and boast that he resides amongst your nations. 'I should like to see him.' 'God's presence is indeed every where,' replied Joshua; 'but he cannot be seen; no mortal eyes can behold his glory.' The Emperor insisted. 'Well said Joshua, 'suppose we try to look first at one of his ambassadors?' The Emperor consented. The Rabbi took him into the open air at noon day and bade him to look at the sun in its meridian splendor. 'I cannot,' said Trajan; 'the light dazzles me.' 'Thou art unable,' said Joshua, 'to endure the light of one of his creatures, and canst thou expect to behold the resplendent glory of the Creator? Would not such a sight annihilate thee?'

A singular case of a severe burn cured by the use of a solution of the chloride of soda, is recorded in the London Lancet. An attorney, in attempting to put out the flames that had attacked the curtains of his bed, had got his hands burned, blistered but not broken. He sent for a couple of quarts of the lotion, (4 oz. of the solution to a pint of water,) had it poured into soup plates, wrapped his hands in lint, as no skin was broken; and so kept them for some time. Next morning he was so perfectly well that only one small dried patch of burn remained: yet an hour and a half had elapsed before the application.

The same solution has been equally effectual in scalds and bruises: it never fails almost immediately to heal a 'black eye.' When the chloride is used for scalds, it is necessary to use with it, in the after applications, some spermaceti ointment.—Amer. Sentinel.

From Guatemala.—We have been favored with the following extract of a letter dated Truxillo, July 17, 1833:—" Nullification has taken place here without bloodshed. All the States are divided, and each is at present a separate government. Every thing is quiet, but, in some instances, citizens of the United States have been insulted.—Contributions are expected, but will be refused. The paysanas (natives) have drawn a petition to the General Assembly, to prevent strangers from retailing, as they say; but it is leveled at all of us. We fear them not. They are forced to buy, and cannot do without us, although we are insulted frequently by them. It is a long while since we have seen a United States vessel of war, and think it would be well for one to pay us a visit. We need protection.—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

Extract.—In all cases it is wise to proceed upon settled and admitted principles; first, because we then more clearly understand our duty and our object; and, secondly, because the clear comprehension of such principle at once directs us to the best means, and limits their application and extent. In public, as in private conduct, to act upon loose, general, and vague views, upon single impulses, and upon indistinct and confused perceptions, is to act inconclusively, uncertainly, and unwisely; to expose ourselves to the necessity of perpetual change, and to impair our character for wisdom and gravity by an apparent inconsistency of purpose.

Double Stars.—But it is not with the revolutions of bodies of a planetary or cometary nature round a solar centre that we are now concerned; it is that of sun around sun—each, perhaps, accompanied with its train of planets and their satellites, closely shrouded from our view by the splendor of their respective suns, and crowded into a space bearing hardly a greater proportion to the enormous interval which separates them, than the distance of the satellites of our planets from the sun itself. A less distinctly characterized subordination would be incompatable with the stability of their systems, and with the planetary nature of their orbits. Unless closely nestled under the protecting power of their immediate superior, the sweep of their other sun in its perihelion passage round their own might carry them off, or whirl them into orbits utterly incompatable with the conditions necessary for the existence of their inhabitants. It must be confessed, that we have here a strangely wide and novel field for speculative excursions, and one which is not easy to avoid luxuriating in.—Cabinet Cyclopædia.

Poverty in England.—Mr. Rush, in his lately published work upon England, says: that many services of plate cost from 30,000 to £80,000 sterling, and that one dress sword cost 4,000 guineas.

An article, in the last North American Review, demolishes, it is thought, the whole system of Phrenology.

A den of petrified snakes was discovered, not long since—in making an excursion—on the slope of a hill, near Cumberland, Maryland.—They were coiled and folded together in every variety of manner. The petrifactions were well marked in relief upon the faces of the stones found in the den. The snakes have been carefully preserved.

Politicians of the corrupter sort.—The corrupter sort of politicians never care, in all tempests, what becomes of the ship of state, so they may save themselves in the cock boat of their own fortune.—Bacon.

A little girl who had been advertised as lost some time, in Alabama, has been just discovered. She had been stolen away by some villain, who colored her face, and disguised her so successfully, that he was enabled to sell her as a negro slave; but the purchaser soon found that the hue, at sale, was not of the true born flesh color. The deed is one of the most ingenious villany.—Phil. Chron.

Education makes good subjects of Government.—Education makes the minds of men gentle, generous, and pliant to government. Ignorance makes them churlish, thwarting, and mutinous.—The most ignorant times, have been most subject to tumults and changes.—Bacon.

HYMN FOR THE AFRICAN COLONIZATION SOCIETY—by pierpont.

With thy pure dews and rains,
Wash out, O God, the stains
From Afric's shore:
And while her palm trees bud,
Let not her children's blood
With her broad Niger's flood
Be mingled more!

Quench, righteous God, the thirst
That Congo's sons hath cursed,
The thirst for gold,
Shall not thy thunders speak,
Where Mammon's altars reek,
Where maids and matron's shriek,
Bound, bleeding, sold?

Hear'st thou, O God, those chains,
Clanging on freedom's plains,
By Christians wrought!
Them, who those chains have worn,
Christians from home have torn,
Christians have hither borne,
Christians have bought!

Cast down, great God, the fanes
That to unhallowed gains,
Round us have risen—
Temples whose priesthood bore
Moses and Jesus o'er,
Then bolt the black man's door,
The poor man's prison!

Wilt thou not, Lord, at last,
From thine own image, cast
Away all cords,
But those of love, which brings
Man from his wanderings
Back to the King of kings,
The Lord of lords!

In the Ornamental department, Mrs. Lacey, assisted by accomplished instructors, will give lessons in the French, and Italian languages, Vocal and Instrumental Music, Drawing, and Painting, in the style of several of the European, and Oriental Schools, Calisthenics, and the forms and elegancies of polished life.

The price for Board, General Superintendance, Fuel, Candlelight, Pew Rent, access to an extensive Library, instructions in Calesthenics, Orthography, Reading, Writing, Rudiments of Geography, and Arithmetic, and all the varieties of Needle Work, will be $30 per term. To this charge will be added, for instruction in any or in all of the higher branches taught in the Junior department, (except the Latin and Greek languages) $6; or instead thereof, in any or in all the branches of the Senior department, $8; French and Italian, each $8; Music, including the use of the instruments for practice, $13; Drawing, and Painting, $6; Bronzing and Painting, in the Oriental styles, $20. Or, if Parents prefer a more definite arrangement, Dr. Lacey will Board, and Instruct, in any, or in all the branches taught in the Institute, for $200, per annum, per scholar, they paying the amount in advance.

The Principal intends to establish, in the vicinity, and under his own general Superintendance, a school for small boys, where, with his own sons, they will be fitted for entrance into any college in the United States. The charge for board and tuition, in any or in all the branches of a finished English education will be $120 per annum, and for other branches proportionally moderate.

No scholar will be received for a less time than one term; and all bills must be paid one quarter in advance.

Each pupil is required to bring a Bible, Bed, and Bedding, Towels; Table spoon, Tea spoon, Knife and Fork.

Pupils will be permitted to attend any place of public worship their Parents may designate.

The Institute having been in operation four terms, and sustained two public examinations, Dr. Lacey submits, with particular satisfaction, the following spontaneous testimonial of its character, and results from Parents and friends of pupils in the Institute.

Pittsburgh, August 3, 1833.

TO THE REV. W. B. LACEY, D. D.—

Dear Sir—We have been so amply gratified by the late examination of your Female Collegiate Institute, that we feel it equally a pleasure and a duty to express our satisfaction, and to wish you such success in your enterprise as may remunerate you for your large expenditure, and, in some measure, compensate you for the unwearied application of your talents and learning to the cause of Education.

The examination was conducted with such minute and critical severity as served to test, to the utmost, the understanding of the pupils, and the extent of their acquisitions in their varied and interesting studies.

When it is taken into consideration that the number of pupils did not exceed fifty, and that three days were spent, almost without relaxation, in ascertaining their mental and moral improvement, the results must be considered as peculiarly gratifying to their parents and friends, and as reflecting the highest credit upon the Principal of the Institute and those to whom their instruction has been committed.

The examination embraced, in its range, the elementary, as well as the higher branches of elocution, Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, Rhetoric, the elements of Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Botany, Astronomy, Algebra, French, Music, and Calesthenic exercises.

In the whole course, whether in those matters that belong to the useful and essential branches, or those that may be termed the accomplishments and refinements of Education, care, attention, and talent, on the part of the instructors, and devotion and industry on the part of the pupils, were obvious. Peculiar interest was excited by the classes that had devoted their attention to Elocution and Rhetoric, by the highest class in French, whose translations from D'Agguessau, Racine, & L'Henriade, were subjects of just commendation; and by the young Ladies who had devoted their attention to Moral Philosophy, whose application of its principles to the Science of Government, and thorough knowledge of the Constitution of the United States, created feelings of mingled surprize and admiration in the bosoms of us all.

The class in Algebra, under the particular charge of Professor Aikin, evinced a knowledge of that most difficult branch of Mathematics, and also of Chemistry and Botany, entitling him and them to high approbation.

The Musical exhibition was extremely satisfactory, as evincing the capability of Mr. Rupp, the Musical Professor, in that delightful accomplishment, and the rapid improvement of his pupils.

Without entering further into detail, sir, we express our entire satisfaction with the result of your system, and cannot forbear expressing a wish that the citizens of our wealthy, manufacturing metropolis, and our fellow citizens throughout the western states, who wish to afford to their daughters the benefits of a refined, accomplished, and useful education, at about one third of the expense that such an education would cost them in eastern cities, will confer their patronage upon your Institution. In addition to all the advantages as regards the improvement of mind and manners which an eastern Institution can afford, the location of your Institution, surrounded by scenes of picturesque beauty, with its groves, orchards, and gardens, its springs of pure water, and in the midst of a country which may be emphatically denominated the residence of health, would, of itself, operate as a strong inducement to parents who are disposed to send their children abroad for education to intrust them to your care.

I have been acquainted with the Institute from its commencement. Its pupils have been unusually healthy; indeed, the situation is one of the most salubrious which I know. At the time of the late examination, in a family of upwards of seventy persons, including the pupils, there was not one who was the subject of medical treatment.

PROSPECT HILL

Literary & Scientific Institution.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

ON the 1st of July, Mr. DANIEL STONE intends opening, near the City of Pittsburgh, an Institution for the instruction of boys. Its plan is to combine, as far as possible, the peculiar advantages of a domestic and public education.—The pupils, with the principal and assistants, will constitute one family, and be at all times under careful supervision. The Discipline will be mild, but strict, such as a father, solicitous for the welfare of his children, would exercise over them. It is believed that an appeal to reason, and the sense of honor and duty, will generally secure obedience. Coercive measures will, therefore, be adopted only in extreme cases.

The Course of Study will embrace the English, Latin, Greek, and French Languages; Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry; Geography and History—Ancient and Modern; Rhetoric, Composition, and Elocution; Natural Philosophy and Chemistry; Penmanship, Orthography, and Reading. Frequent examinations will be held, open to the friends and relations of the youths.

The Mode of Instruction will be thorough and critical, and no subject will be relinquished until fully understood. That the scholar's mind may become vigorous, active, and self-confident—prepared for the stern conflicts of life, and a fearless discharge of its duties, he will be encouraged to reason and decide for himself.

Each student will be required to attend such church as his parent or guardian shall designate.

To preserve health and elasticity of spirits, to check indolence, and promote industry among the students, they will be daily exercised in athletic sports.

Pupils will be admitted between the ages of Six and Sixteen. None can be received for less than one term.

The uniform Dress will consist of a cap, blue roundabout, with metal buttons, and blue pantaloons. Every article of clothing should be marked with the owner's name in full.

The Terms are two hundred dollars a year, payable quarterly in advance. This includes Tuition, Board, Lodging, Washing, Mending, Light, and Fuel.

The Vacations, after the present year, will be three—the 1st, of two weeks, from the 3d Wednesday in April; the 2d, of four weeks, from the 2d Wednesday in August; and one week at Christmas.

The Matron's department will be under the care of Mrs. Reynolds, of this city.

THE Subscriber has the satisfaction to say to the public, and his friends, that he has connected with his other business, the manufactury of Mill and Cross Cut Saws; and can furnish supplies to merchants and others: he believes them to be equal to any ever used in the western country—the experience of the workmen employed, with the known good qualities of the steel, justifies him in warranting the article to any who may be disposed to patronize western industry.

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in all cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the farm on which he lives, in Washington county, on Pigeon creek, one mile south of Williamsport, on the Monongahela river, to which there is a perfectly level road. This farm contains near 400 acres, the greater part of which is first rate land. There is on the premises three small tenements for the accommodation of families. This tract is well timbered, and abounds with stone coal and springs of water, both of the best quality.
